H. E. MULLAN, who has sailed over that course and is familiar with the harbor at Apia, said to a reporter this morning, in speaking of the disaster and in reference to his brother's last letter above quoted from the New Zealand Herald: "The Vandalia is very small, with reefs outside and inside, and had holding ground. There is no coal here, and nothing to eat. Everything is very bad." 1st

THE DOMINION PARLIAMENT the question has been officially moved that it is the intention to ask the United States Government if, by the President's proclamation declaring the closure of the waters of Behring Sea, it is intended on our part to claim exclusive jurisdiction over the waters acquired by us with the purchase of Alaska?

The Canadian Government must have been sound asleep during the consideration of the bill in Congress, in pursuance of which the Presidential proclamation was issued. We understand, and so did the entire country, that exclusive jurisdiction is precisely the claim we would prefer. Without it our fishing possessions in those waters would be valueless. We cannot maintain our property rights there and keep off trespassers unless we do assert exclusive jurisdiction. It has not been contended, however, that this would prevent the navigation of those waters by ships of friendly powers for other purposes than those of fishing or dealing in skins and furs. Lord Salisbury appears to have understood the matter better than our Canadian brethren, for in February, 1888, our Minister, Mr. Phelps, wrote to Mr. Bayard:

Lord Salisbury assents to your suggestion to enter into negotiations between the two Governments interested, a close time for seals between April 15th and November 1st, and the United States Government in any preventive orders issued to naval vessels in that region of the respective Governments.

The loss of three ships of our navy in the storm at Apia is nothing, scarcely to be mentioned, in the presence of the death of the two sons and more of our brave men who were swept down by the terrible typhoon that sent our ships to the bottom or ashore. The sailor finds in the blue sea a fitting tomb; but the blue-jacket, though content to rest on the ocean sands at last, dreads the death that meets him in a contest with Nature—to die in battle for his country is welcome ending. A nation mourns the gallant fellows who came to an untimely end at Apia, and which might have been avenged, had not the greed of Germany necessitated the crowding into so small a harbor so many ships of war. While no one is to blame in a strict sense, the people will not forget that the ships and men we have lost would have been widely distributed, and therefore less likely to have been destroyed by the great storm of last month, had it not been for the indefensible policy and the grasping disposition of the German Government.

THREE weeks in office, explains the San Francisco Alta, and no Southern men and no negro yet appointed to office by President Harrison. How very solicitous the Democratic press has become to be sure, for the colored citizen to have recognition.

In the past it had been half as solicitous for the negro as the end that he should be secure in the exercise of the right of suffrage, the representation from the South in Congress might to-day be very different, and Southern men might already have found place in office under the new Administration. But let the Alta wait; it cannot know what the future may have in store for even Southern Democrats—who are contrite.

Mr. HALSTED should manifest no chagrin that his appointment brought him rejection by the Senate. The editor who sees official station must expect his chieftain of critics to come home to roost.

Besides, Mr. Halsted in past years was as indiscreet with his pen as are some gossips with their tongues. If he has not many a time regretted the hot blood that impelled him to shower abuse upon Lincoln and Grant, it is the more to his shame. That Senators whom he rated roughly and roundly should decline to confer honor upon him is simply human nature.

If Germany has demanded Klein, it is unlikely that it will get him by any delay on the part of our Government. While the United States is not responsible for his actions in foreign lands, neither is it bound to accept the German version of the fight in which Mataafa came off victor. It would be more justified in giving credence to the native story, which exonerates Klein, and is not at all complimentary to the German officers.

THERE is serious trouble brewing in Canada. The refusal of the Dominion Commons to allow the Quebec Jesuit satisfaction bill will put an enmity more bitter than ever before the Catholic and the Orangeman elements. It may be set down as certain that the Cabinet, which is composed of diverse elements, will go to pieces and that the unity of the Dominion will be imperiled.

GENERAL HAMPTON has returned two Pennsylvania battle flags to Senator Quay, that fell into the possession of Hampton's brigade in the rebellion. It was a graceful act on the part of General Hampton, and the comments upon it are uniformly pleasing. The fact justifies the belief that the "breach" is steadily closing that makes sectional feeling possible.

The Examiner should "rot out" Nas with his fiercest failure in caricature at once, for the Mexican President, the independent Diaz, has pronounced the story of that journal about a mistake in the boundary line between the United States and Mexico to be unadulterated bosh and not worthy of attention.

JOHN BRIGHT leaves three sons. Know ing the value of capital that loss of money cannot take away, each of them was taught a trade under the watchful eye of their distinguished father. The aristocracy in which John Bright believed is the aristocracy of the self-helping hand.

THERE should be haste before another storm to build the war ships that such a nation as ours ought to have. One more strong wind might leave us with not even an apology for a navy.

DIAMOND DOINGS.

TWO DAYS' EVENTS AMONG CLUBS OF THE LEAGUE.

Sacramento Jumps On by Stockton—Costly Errors—Three to Nothing—Etc.

The Sacramento Club went to Stockton on Saturday to try conclusions with the champions of the last season. They were accompanied by quite a large number of local admirers of the game, who hoped to see the Capital City Club sweep the diamond over there. The party met with a decided reception by the Stockton Club and citizens of that delightful city. There was a large attendance at the grounds, and the audience was evidently full of enthusiasm over the home club, and yelled themselves hoarse whenever the Stockton players made brilliant plays. The little group of Sacramentoans present did their level best in the same line for the visiting players. The day was pleasant, except for the north wind, which was in line condition, the players all felt good, and the result was a closely contested game.

The visitors were taken to the grounds in an omnibus and immediately commenced practicing, showing up in very good style, as also did the Stocktons in their preliminaries.

At 2:20 P.M. the game commenced, the Stocktons choosing the bat and sending Stockton out.

Stockton was whitewashed in the first inning but gained a run in the second. In each of the fourth and eighth innings they made a run, and were shut out the rest of the time.

The Sacramento club never made a run from one end of the game to the other, and though they played fair ball, Stockton proved the more fortunate in their fielding.

Fairhurst and Bales were a very effective battery, and only four scattering hits were made off the latter's delivery. Sweeney played an errorless game on first, having fifteen putouts, but did not reach the rest, however, during the game. Bales, the Captain of the Stocktons, played well and hit the ball for two bases. He seemed as if he would rather wait for his bat than hit the ball, and he reached the initial times in that way.

Howard and Stickney were very good in their positions, and the former has two base-hits to his credit. Moore, Hunton and Sweeney were all in the field, and proved to be good, but for the ball that came their way. Senna made a record in the batting line, driving out three bases hits as clean as could be. He also stole his share of bases—in fact, more than he did, as he was a plainer fielder, and in three innings Morgan had six base hits for two doubles and five singles, but out of this bunching of hits the Stocktons secured only one run, owing to poor base-running.

Stockton was not missed—Dashiell, Haynes, playing great ball at short. Perrier had an off day, making two errors out of three chances. Stickney's playing captured the crowd's attention, and made three clean hits, while his base running and long slides were revelation.

Oakland and San Francisco. The San Francisco and Oakland Clubs came together again on Saturday at the Hotel St. Francis. In the initial game the score was 0-0, but the second game on Sunday was more interesting.

The attendance on Saturday was immense, the weather being delightful. Again the youths from the eastern side of the bay went down before the stalwarts of the metropolis, the score being: San Francisco 7, Oakland 5.

A Game at Santa Rosa. A Game at Santa Rosa. Santa Rosa, March 31.—A close game of baseball was played between the Santa Rosa and Petaluma Baseball Clubs to-day. Tom McLaughlin, an amateur pitcher of the Santa Rosa club, was the boy for the visitors. Brown and Fairhurst composed the Captain of the Stocktons, played well and hit the ball for two bases. He seemed as if he would rather wait for his bat than hit the ball, and he reached the initial times in that way.

Diamond Gossip. McSorley doesn't believe in boisterous coaching. Most of the ladies of Stockton keep the score in detail themselves.

Stockton is a fine place for a ball-player. Only when you can't go down the street without someone will bring you in a store and fan you.

The standing of the four different clubs of the California League is as follows:

San Francisco..... 665
Oakland..... 666
Sacramento..... 699

The looks bad for Sacramento. Baker of the Stocktons is a sure fire as a coach. He plays his position when in the box so well, however, that he puts many a baserun from going over second.

With the Stockton Club saw Hapeman, Saturday, they prepared to sling the ball over the heads of the Stockton people, and in response to this they charged him with "out" a base hit and really made a run. He worked his way from first base around to third, and while Sweeney and Behan were trying to "teach" between, he turned and made a wide circle around to home, and Sweeney threw high to the catcher, who (in the opinion of half the Stockton people) touched O'Day at the home plate with the ball. The Stockton Shadettes were beaten out a base hit, however.

Yesterdays' game played well, the former pulling out a win. Sylvester's running catch of a swift drive to right field was the feature of the game. It was a remarkable catch, and after a long run he stuck there. His wonder was in everyone's mouth after the game. He is not a better batter, but he hit the ball every time and didn't "bite" once.

Newster took care of everything that came his way, and the error charged against him was in reality a base hit. It was a long run for a ground ball which he stopped did not get around him in time to throw the ball. An other scorer would have given the batter a base hit.

McSorley did not do as well as he wanted to, for his error gave the Stockton Shadettes a lead. The Stockton girls threw to second, while there was a runner on third added another run to the Stockton score. McSorley couldn't get along with out a base hit, however.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

BOLD ROBBERY.

A Long Highwayman Flying His Vocation Near Auburn.

ATURAY, March 31st.—On Saturday morning John Bullard, a teamster for W. McCall of Sunny South, was driving down the road to Auburn, with a considerable sum in his wagon. When he reached the place he stopped at Auburn about 11:30, and near the water-tower, a man made a black Bart suddenly spring into the road, and at the point of a pistol ordered Bullard to get up. Mr. Bullard, being of an obliging nature, readily complied when he was ordered to "shell out," which he did to the extent of $250, the sack of gold-dust in the wagon having escaped his memory. After pocketing the money, the highwayman drove on which it is needless to say he did.

A few minutes later the down stage from Forest Hill, having on board S. Park of Michigan Bluff, Mrs. Waller and a number of passengers, stopped at the same place. Mr. Bullard, who was not in the place when the passengers were notified of what had taken place. The passengers were W. McCall, Mrs. McCall, and a man in a mine up country. Mr. Albrecht, a member of Forest Hill, accompanied by his wife, who were returning from a visit to Sacramento, and another lady whose name we did not hear. On learning what had taken place, quite a commotion among the passengers occurred, among many of whom passengers were hidden away in all manner of places, Mrs. Albrecht becoming so nervous that she fainted. The stage was then transferred to the down stage. In the meantime Mr. Albrecht was busy extricating a bag of gold from his boot-leg, which he handed to his wife, who returned to Auburn. The passengers, however, all got to Auburn—not having a chance to lay to the robbers. How the up-stage passengers got through we have not heard yet.
